

M.A.

IN CINEMA STUDIES

at the UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

NOW ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS

The Cinema Studies Institute at Innis College, University of Toronto, offers a freestanding, one-year, funded Masters in Cinema Studies. Building on more than thirty years of exceptional undergraduate instruction, the M.A. program is housed in one of the top research universities in North America. The Masters in Cinema Studies also offers its graduate students the advantages of studying film in a city renowned for its film culture.

<http://www.wunderkabinet.org/chiro.html>

documentary • narrative theory • counter-cinematic traditions cultural theories/cultural histories • the cinematic institution animation • national, transnational, and global cinemas early cinemas • experimental and avant-garde cinema film genres • women filmmakers • gender in film media and social practice • feminist film theory

GRADUATE FACULTY

CHARLIE KEIL (DIRECTOR)

KAY ARMATAGE • CORINN COLUMPAR

ANGELICA FENNER • ROB KING

NICHOLAS SAMMOND • BART TESTA

Mário Novais

The core curriculum builds on the research and teaching strengths of our faculty: History, Theory, and Culture. This program of study encourages students to relate the current media environment to previous pivotal moments in the history of the cinematic institution, and to central questions of form, materiality, social and cultural practice, and the production of meaning.

Annual deadline for applications: February 1st

www.utoronto.ca/cinema

Institute of Cinema Studies
UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

2 Sussex Avenue, Innis College, University of Toronto, Toronto, ON, Canada M5S 1J5

For more information, contact

gradcinema.studies@utoronto.ca